MEXICAN GULF CITY RAVAGED BY HURRICANE

Tampico Hit by 100-Mile-Per-Hour Winds; Heavy Damage Seen.

By The Associated Press

TAMPICO, Mex., Aug. 15—A major tropical hurricane with winds well over 100 miles an hour struck the coast near this oil city at dawn today, ravaging Tampico itself with 90 to 95 mile winds.

Streets were deserted at 7:30 a. m. today as winds uprooted trees, shattered windows and destroyed signs and foliage. Damage to oil wells was expected.

The weather bureau here said many of its instruments were broken and accurate measurements had become impossible for the present.

The full force of the hurricane is expected to become apparent later in the morning.

Waves 15 feet high rolled into Tampico beaches. Small lakes and rivers were rising. Visibility was low.

Movable objects swirled down deserted streets.

The captain of the port said the actual center of the storm struck the coast near Soto la Marina. No reports on damage could be obtained immediately, for communications, normally poor, were virtually disrupted.

Soto La Marina is a sparsely settled fishing and ranching area, located on a large ranch owned by American interests.

Winds Play Cat, Mouse Game with Tampico

By The Associated Press

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 15—A devastating tropical hurricane which played with Tampico, Mexico, for two days like a cat toying with a mouse, moved inland south of that oil city this morning.

A U. S. weather bureau report at 7:10 a. m. here said the storm was "definitely moving inland," and that winds of 70 miles an hour were sweeping Tampico itself.

Warnings had been issued to ships to remain in port. The Red Cross was standing by.

Residents had taken precautions, remembering the 1933 hurricane which killed about 30, injured hundreds, cost millions in property damage in the lush valley.

The hurricane, termed of major proportions with 100 to 120 mile an hour winds at its center, had zig-zagged a crooked course near Tampico since Wednesday.

Early today at Tampico, 252 airline miles south of here, a north-northeast wind of 36 miles per hour with gusts up to 65 miles was reported. Steady rain continued to fall.

At Kuxtan, Mexico, about 100 miles south of Tampico, west-southwestward winds up to 40 miles per hour and "continuous heavy rain" were reported, according to information received by the weather bureau here.

Coastal residents in Texas, long familiar with the tricks of tropical disturbances, kept on the alert through the night in case the storm should suddenly change its course and head in their direction.

All were taken in the M. H. Gunder and Sons ambulance to City hospital. Ruhl and Patterson were treated and released, Lewis was reported to be in "fair" condition today.

According to police Ruhl was driving north on Leader street when Barlow, driving west on Silver and crashed into the front of the other car. The impact caused the car driven by Ruhl to crash into a grocery store on the northeast corner of the intersectional. Both cars were badly damaged.

Man Sought for Car Theft Captured As Train Blocks Path

A freight train blocking West Center street at 3:15 a. m. today proved to be an unwelcome obstacle for Lewis Marlin Hill, 20-year-old Negro of Mt. Vernon, charged with auto larceny, city police reported.

On the lookout for a stolen automobile which had been reported at 7:30 p. m. yesterday, Patrolman Merlin E. Mitton spotted the car while patroling the West Center street beat. A Pennsylvania freight train blocking the crossing, enabling the patrolman to make the arrest.

Report of the car theft was received here last night from Mt. Vernon police, who said they suspected Hill was heading for Marion. He is being held here until the arrival of Mt. Vernon authorities.

LIMA SECURITY STEPS TAKEN

24 Measures Introduced To Prevent Escapes from Insane Hospital.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., AUG. 15 — Twenty-four steps to prevent future escapes from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Lima were ordered today by State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood as the result of a three-week study following the break of four men July 4.

Sherwood said only two of the 24 recommendations of Ray A. Noble, former deputy warden at Ohio penitentiary who made the study, would be deferred for any length of time, and these only because of the difficulty of obtaining materials.

One calls for increasing the number of single cells for men from the present 222 to 350, with eventual conversion of all men's cells to single cells. The other involves security measures for elevators and basement doors.

No Estimate of Cost

Welfare department officials said no estimate was available on the total cost of the planned changes. Necessary funds they said, will be transferred from other department appropriations. Herman Geiser, the department's supervisor of construction, went to Lima to work out detailed plans for the changes.

Noble also is to be on duty at Lima to assist Dr. R. E. Bushong, superintendent, for several weeks, Sherwood said, to get the recommendations in operation "as soon as possible."

He added that with 1,130 patients now housed there and more expected as soon as county courts reconvene after summer recesses, new visiting quarters under constant supervision to prevent contraband from reaching the inmates will be established.

Mechanical Changes

Seventeen of the recommendations call for mechanical changes, including installation of a wire mesh fence enclosing the north portion and joining walls on the other three sides. Wooden window sashes and frames are to be replaced with steel, basement window bars are to be reinforced, shrubs close to the buildings are to be moved away, and a new

1939 DOLLAR IS WORTH BUT 50 CENTS TODAY

It Buys More in Some Places Than Others, However, Survey Shows.

By The Associated Press

Your 1939 dollar is worth only about 50 cents today in buying the ordinary necessities of life, but it buys a lot more in some parts of the United States than in others.

An Associated Press survey of retail prices in 13 leading cities in all sections of the nation revealed strikingly irregular increases.

Some products have soared out of all relation with others compared with prewar days.

Some cities where living costs were lowest in 1939 pay the most now.

The survey showed:

You can eat for less, by and large, in Minneapolis than in most cities.

Chicago Most Highest

You pay more for meat in the packing capital of Chicago than elsewhere.

Your housing dollar buys more in San Francisco and St. Louis, and least in Denver, compared with the other cities.

Your clothing dollar goes about as far one place as another, but buys a lot less than in either 1939 or 1946.

Your meat bill has gone up much more, percentagewise, than your bread or milk bills. Butter and eggs rate much higher on your budget than they did comparatively before the war.

In most items, half or more of the price increase has come in the last year.

But while your housing dollar buys only half as much most places as in 1939, in Columbus and San Francisco it buys more than it did in June, 1946.

Itemize Price Jump

Surveying typical products in the three fields of food, clothing and housing marked by the department of justice for "price conspiracy" investigation, The Associated Press survey found, in the 13 cities, item by item:

BACON:

Prices jumped 300 to 400 per cent in many cities in all sections of the country between 1939 and the present. In money, the range of increase was from 36 to 63 cents a pound. The packing center of Chicago reported the greatest hike. In 1939 it had the lowest priced bacon in the nation, 18 cents a pound. In June, 1946, when OPA was dying, Chicago paid 42 cents, as low as any. But today it pays 81 cents a pound. San Francisco reported the highest price today, 87 cents, a jump of 44 cents since June, 1946, but only 53 cents higher than its prewar price of 34 cents. Columbus and Minneapolis reported the least increase since 1939. Both cities were paying 36 cents a pound more.

PORK CHOPS:

Chicago led the nation, paying the highest present price, 85 cents a pound. Minneapolis pays the lowest price today, 67 cents. St. Louis reported the least increase since June, 1946, paying only 12 cents more. Its current price is 75 cents, shared with Atlanta, New York, San Francisco, Seattle and Dallas.

ROUND STEAK:

Wide variations, both in present prices and in increases in the last eight years, were reported by various cities. Chicago has the highest present price, 95 cents a pound. Minneapolis reports the lowest price, 66 cents, and St. Louis, pays 89 cents.

BREAD:

Between 1939 and the present, bread prices advanced from two to nine cents a loaf; and between June, 1946, and today, the increase varied from none at Denver to four cents at Philadelphia. Present prices range from 11 cents in Denver, 12 cents in Minneapolis, Boston and San Francisco to 17 cents in Dallas. The June, 1946,

Storms Coming With Cooler Weather Take 3 Ohio Lives

Today's drop in temperature followed in the wake of storms throughout the state which brought death to three persons and did heavy property damage. One man was killed at Cleveland and two girls lost their lives at Lakeside.

The mid-west drouth is said to breaking up piecemeal with only the Atlantic seaboard still in the grip of the heat wave. The rains of last night and today brought relief to the parched soil and gave promise of reviving wilting crops.

The weatherman made good on his prediction of scattered thundershowers and not so warm today and promises "generally fair" for tomorrow.

The thermometer tobogganed from a high of 89 here yesterday to 72 at noon today. The low reading for the 24 hours was 68.

A year ago the thermometer touched 77 with a low of 65 degrees.

Ohio Promised Coolness After Damaging Storms

By The Associated Press

Ohioans were promised cooler weather Friday after a hot spell that culminated in damaging thundershowers yesterday.

George W. Mindling of the U. S. weather bureau at Columbus said a cool air mass approaching Ohio had diminished in size, but would restore normal seasonal temperatures today.

There will be thunderstorms today, he warned, with the greater number scattered across the southern portion of the state.

One Man Dies

Storms yesterday struck heavily at Cleveland leaving one man dead, brought death to two teen-age girls near Lakeside, caused damage at Youngstown and Cambridge, and destroyed an airplane as the Franklin county fair was drenched.

Two 17-year-old girls from Akron, Charlotte Ann Root and Virginia Rayman, were killed when lightning struck a tree under which they sought shelter near a Lakeside church camp.

Hail and lightning hammered Cleveland as wind toppled trees onto utility wires. The temperature dropped 20 degrees in the same number of minutes.

Thomas Carner, 33-year-old construction worker, was dead on arrival at a hospital after being struck by lightning in the east section of the city.

Lightning strikes at the rate of one every 30 seconds kept the Cleveland fire department on the move. One damaging bolt downed an industrial chimney in the east side of the city.

Basements Flooded

Hail, a broken water main, and a heavy downpour caused flooded basements.

Another storm flattened seven tents and rolled a two-seated light plane end over end on the ground at the Franklin county fair as a crowd of thousands was drenched by rain and hail.

Cambridge was hit by a storm that dropped 1.7 inches of rainfall in 30 minutes, flooding basements and disrupting electrical services.

Youngstown residents suffered from flooded basements, and six people were injured when a tree fell on them as an electrical storm struck that industrial area.

Scattered showers over the state generally reduced the temperatures during the late afternoon and night.

Midwest Drouth Seems To Be on Way Out

By The Associated Press

The midwestern drouth appeared today to be breaking up piecemeal as moderate or normal temperatures returned to most of the nation.

Except for the sweltering Atlantic states, scattered cooling showers or thunderstorms within the past 48 hours had sent temperatures back into the 80's or lower 90's over most of the midwest.

P. F. Sutton, federal weather forecaster at Chicago, said soaking rains were widespread throughout the Ohio valley last night from the Mississippi river to the Appalachian region and that they were expected to continue today.

More scattered light showers were expected in Minnesota and eastern portions of the Dakotas but general rains still were needed in the great plains states where some crops continued to deteriorate because of lack of moisture. [illegible]

U. S. Rejects Russ Demand On Jap Pact

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—The United States has rejected firmly a Soviet demand that the job of drawing up a peace treaty for Japan be left to the Big Four Pacific powers—the United States, Britain, China and Russia.

The American position was disclosed in a note made public today by the state department. It was delivered to Semen K. Tsarapkin, Russian charge d'affaires, two days ago.

In the note, the United States maintained its unbudging position that the treaty should be drafted by an 11-nation conference.

And it made plain that this country will proceed with that work even if Russia refuses to attend.

India Divides Into 2 States

Still Strife Ridden, Subcontinent Joins World Family as 2 Nations.

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, Aug. 15 — The vast subcontinent of India, though still tormented by bloody communal conflicts, split itself in two today and jubilantly joined the world family of free nations as two new and separate dominions — Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India.

In New Delhi, Lord Mountbatten, the last viceroy of British India, who turned over the reins of authority to the Indians at the last stroke of midnight, was sworn in as the first governor-general of Hindu India—populated by most of India's 227,000,000 Hindus.

Moslem Sworn In

In Karachi, Mahomed Ali Jinnah, the monocled leader to whom the new Moslem dominion chiefly owes its existence, was sworn in as governor-general of Pakistan — populated by most of India's 70,000,000 Moslems.

But in the Punjab, the great northern province which is to be split between Pakistan and India, the flames of communal strife still raged. Moslems and non-Moslems—mostly Sikhs and Hindus—fought to the death and whole sections of the capital city of Lahore were ablaze.

153 Dead, 136 Hurt

Unofficial counts fixed the death toll there since Wednesday morning at 153 and the number of injured at 136.

CIVIL WAR TO BE MEDIATED

Inter-American Parley Delegates To Settle Paraguayan Strife.

By The Associated Press

PETROPOLIS, BRAZIL, Aug. 15—Delegates to the inter-American defense conference agreed at a preparatory session today to support mediation efforts in the Paraguayan civil war, a delegation member said upon leaving the closed meeting.

Raul Fernandes, Brazil's foreign minister, was unanimously chosen president of the conference, but asked that the delegates confirm the election later at the first plenary session.

Conference action to support mediation efforts of Brazil and Argentina to end the civil war in Paraguay had been urged here by Justo Prieto, former foreign minister of Paraguay, self-styled "observer" for the rebels.

The preparatory commission for the conference, which is to write a treaty of mutual defense, met at 10:55 a. m. All 20 nations participating were represented.

Chile's foreign minister, German Vergara Donoso, told newsmen he would oppose the Argentine proposal to include discussion of economic questions.

Cuba, however, announced she would press for a treaty clause against "economic aggression." Mexico and several other countries are known to favor consideration of hemisphere economic problems at this meeting.

Argentina has announced she would propose a special inter-American economic conference some time before the Bogota conference set for next January.

Everything is now in readiness for the opening of what is expected to be the greatest fair in Marion county history Sunday. The entry list of all exhibits surpassing any in the past will close tomorrow, Harley Mayers, fair board secretary said.

It was during the years when Millard Fillmore was president of the United States that a small group of pioneer farmers gathered their families in the old farm wagon and packed several baskets of food and drove from all directions toward Marion to attend the first Marion county fair in 1850. Marion was then only a very small village. The group probably brought along a few samples of their best corn and wheat and livestock to compete for [illegible]. # Increasing Costs Complicate City's Problem In Carrying Through Sewer Improvement Plans

By MARY HERRING

Marion residents who own or live in houses that have modern facilities dismiss the talk of sewers with a light statement. They have the modern equipment, the sewer is already in use, so consequently the subject is closed.

Other homes which haven't this advantage look to the time in the future when they might have such facilities, putting up with the inconveniences while they must.

Few persons in either group, however, realize the extensive work that must go into the actual construction of a sewer.

Marionites are in favor of building better sewers, as was evident in the 1945 November election when they voted almost unanimously for the bond issue which included an improvement program to enlarge and improve the present sewage system.

Although they knew they voted for an improvement, few actually realize the seemingly endless number of details and setbacks that are involved in carrying out such a program.

This article is an attempt to refresh the memories of Marionites on the proposal, to list the planned improvements and reasons for the changes, the recent necessary changes, and the progress on the bond issue which they authorized almost two years ago.

In Two Parts

The sewer program itself consisted of two parts. First the improvement on present sewers and the construction of new lines in sections of Marion which need them, secondly, the modernization of the sewage treatment plant which was once declared to be the most adequate in the state among municipalities of similar size.

A total of $641,950 to be used for the work on both projects was approved as a general public obligation when the 1945 voters put their mark after the "for" on the election bond issue ballots. Of that amount $371,950 was to be used for the sewer program and $270,000 for improvement of the sewage treatment plant.

Up to and including today only one contract has been let for any sewer construction and that is the Clinton street project, which is now almost half finished.

The second project was recently bid on but since all three construction companies submitting bids were far over the estimate made by T. S. Cathers, city engineer, the bids were refused. Another estimate has been submitted by Mr. Cathers and bids will again be received.

Due to the increasing rise in the cost of labor and material and also to the extremely rainy weather prevalent this year, the actual construction has been delayed. Officials hope to proceed, slowly if necessary, until prices are again on a level basis.

Labor Cost Jumps

As an example of the price problem Mr. Cathers cited this actual experience which the Clinton street contractor faced. At the time of the company's bid on the project, the rate for common labor was quoted to him. When the time for actual construction came, the rate had jumped 30 cents per hour.

Readers will probably say, "Well that is only an increase of 30 cents." The observation would be quite true—but that is the increase in an hourly rate for every common laborer who is employed and each laborer works so many required hours per day and the increase applies to each hour. Another point to consider is the fact that the bidder has already submitted his bid and those increases will all total up.

No business man takes a job unless he expects to make a profit. Although bidders provide for a leeway, any unexpected rise in rates for labor or increased prices of material cuts down that profit.

The Clinton street project involves the construction of a sanitary trunk sewer serving the southwest part of Marion. The line will begin in the Oakland Heights addition at Clinton street and Woodrow avenue and extend north to West Center street where it will join the main sanitary trunk sewer which leads to the sewage treatment works. The trunk sewer provides a sanitary outlet for streets in the vicinity of Bennett and Clinton streets and also several streets in the Oakland Heights addition.

Provides for Future

A 42-inch storm sewer is being constructed in the same trench with the sanitary line from Woodrow avenue north to the Columbia street open ditch. The trunk sewer both, sanitary and storm, is designed large enough for future extension southward, crossing Bellefontaine avenue to Davids street then in Davids street and the White Oaks road to the Prospect pike. It also provides a sanitary outlet for 38 houses in Oakland Heights, which are now connected to a septic tank with a capacity for treating sewage from a dozen homes.

Since material has been received lately to complete the connection which runs under the N. Y. C. Railroad tracks at Curve street and since the tile is laid with a slight decrease in grade to facilitate the flow, the property owners from West Center street south to the vicinity of Brown avenue can be serviced within the near future. Since the sewer is laid to flow north, these properties which have been greatly in need can utilize the already completed section before the other half of the project is completely finished.

The bids recently rejected were for two projects, one the Bennett street and Fies avenue, which would be installed primarily to carry the dry weather sanitary sewage from the Columbia street line. The other project was for Nye and Glad streets, one which is secondary in importance to the former.

It was later decided that the line would be on Bennett street and Fies avenue, there by complying with two objectives. The main purpose would be to relieve the sanitary sewer on West Columbia street of unwanted conditions in dry weather and also to provide facilities to residents of the other two streets.

The line installed there would contain an automatic shut-off which would operate when excessive water was present, conducting the drainage to the river. In dry weather, the new connection would carry the sanitary sewage crossflow to the sewage plant.

Other Projects Listed

Other projects and the amount estimated for each are as follows: East Center street (storm sewer), $24,400; Jefferson street (storm sewer) $32,500; Jefferson street (sanitary trunk sewer) $47,550. East Center street (sanitary trunk) $35,750; East Church Grand and Indiana (sanitary trunk sewer) $44,500; Leader street (sanitary sewer) $29,200; Nile street (interceptor sewer) $34,100; Ququa (storm sewer) $55,450.

Many residents do not know the reason for the distinction between the various classifications of sewers, namely, storm, sanitary and interceptor.

Storm sewers are built to carry off the excess rainfall; sanitary to dispose of residential and industrial sewage which needs to be purified before emptying into rivers or outlets, and interceptors to take care of the sewage which accumulates in the trunk lines during dry weather, thus causing an unsanitary condition which doesn't occur during times when the lines are filled with excessive rainfall.

Floyd G. Browne was employed as consulting engineer to draw up the preliminary plans for the work necessary to modernize the sewage treatment plant and supervise construction. The first draft of these plans has been approved by Service-Safety Director Uncapher and the state department of health. Detailed plans will give specifications and the quantity and cost estimates for the proposed repairs and improvements.

MASSILLON, O., Aug. 15 — Mayor S. Robert Weirich, in his first official statement on the violent deaths of two babies in City hospital, accused Stark county Prosecutor D. Deane McLaughlin today of trying to make the case a "political issue in an attempt to discredit" his administration.

His remarks were in reply to the prosecutor's claim that the mayor had encouraged city police to accept a story by a six-year-old boy that the youth dropped and killed the babies in the hospital last June 6. The boy later retracted the statement.

The mayor said McLaughlin had sought to "discredit the efforts which have been put forth by other investigating authorities."

"The prosecutor is well aware that I have insisted from the beginning on a thorough and complete investigation and that it was primarily at my insistance that

Bids To Be Received On Road Resurfacing

Bids on hard-surfacing two Marion county roads have been advertised for by State Highway Director Murray D. Shaffer. They are portions of County Road No. 17, running from LaRue to DeCliff in Montgomery township and county Road No. 34, known as the Hillman-Ford road, in Marion and Grand Prairie Townships. The total distance involved is about 5½ miles.

The same type of surface is called for in both instances, a bituminous road mix surface course laid over a waterbound macadam base course. The width of the pavement is to be 14 feet on a roadway 24 feet wide.

Specifications call for the work to be completed not later than July 31, 1948 on both jobs. The LaRue - Decliff project covers 3.458 miles and the Hillman-Ford project 2.182 miles. The state highway department will receive bids at Columbus until 10 a. m. Aug. 26.

David Cowles, noted crimonologist of the Cleveland police department, was induced to visit the city and review the evidence in this case," he declared.

The two babies, Rosemary Morton, 10 weeks, and Diane J. Brand, eight weeks, were found dying of skull fractures in their cribs on June 6.

In 1865 the U. S. congress authorized the coining of three-cent pieces.

Snakes Are Snakes but Not in Kansas City

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—A man once spent years writing a long novel in which he never employed the letter "e"—the most commonly used letter in the alphabet.

That was tough. Try writing an ordinary sentence yourself sometime without the letter "e," if you think it's easy.

But the author at least had years to do it. To write under the pressure of the clock and the deadline, as newspapermen usually do, is more difficult.

Hal Boyle

The best example I know was turned out [illegible] years ago by a reporter who was free to use every letter in the alphabet and every word in the American language but one. Yet that forbidden five-letter word was the key to his front-page story.

The reporter was Paul Fisher, now an executive for United Aircraft Corporation. Fisher, whose reporting helped send "Boss Tom" Pendergast to prison, then was a top newsman on the Kansas City Star, the springboard to literary fame for many newspapermen, including Ernest Hemingway.

Boardwalk Collapses

Here's what happened:

It was a dull Sunday in August, and many of the Star's staff were busy covering sermons. Just as it got "deep dusk"—as we say in Missouri—the police headquarters man phoned in:

"The boardwalk out at the —— amusement park just collapsed. Musta been a hundred standing on it, and they fell about 20 feet into a snakepit."

Charlie Blood, a fabulous night city editor for more than 30 years, sent Fisher, two other reporters and two photographers to the scene.

"We found hundreds of people milling around, some screaming and sobbing in hysteria," Fisher recalled. "Some had been painfully hurt, and everybody was panicky. Some of the women and children had landed in the middle of the snakes, and the snakes had crawled over them, as panicky as the people."

Weeps Over "Babies"

Police were demanding from Madame Zulu, owner of the exhibit, whether the poisonous snakes in her collection had been de-fanged. She was crying over the escape of her snakes—"my beloved babies," she called them.

Getting a clear account of what had happened from incoherent witnesses and terrified victims was the easiest part of the story for the reporters.

The job of putting it on paper fell to Fisher. Back in the office he had 55 minutes to make the next edition. Five minutes of that time was spent in perplexed conversation with Charley Blood and Managing Editor "Pete" Wellington, who reminded Fisher of the unwritten office rule:

"You can't use the word 'snake' in the Kansas City Star."

Originated by President

This ban, celebrated throughout the newspaper world, stemmed directly from the late George B. Longan, then president of the paper. A great newspaperman, Longan felt most people shared his own intense aversion to snakes and didn't want them dished up in their morning newspaper.

"I had been thinking of that problem from the moment I got the assignment," Fisher said. "But there was no time to go to a dictionary for a thesaurus. So I sat down and wrote the story."

And in 50 minutes he batted out 1,500 yords of copy, and never used the word snake once.

How did he do it?

"Well, even today," Paul laughed, "I don't think of a snake as just a snake. To me they are still 'Madam Zulu's charges,' 'slithering monstrosities,' or 'animals of the lower vertebrate order.'"

Otherwise, Fisher calls a spade a spade.

YOUR HEALTH

Chronic Arthritis

THE millions who suffer from chronic arthritis—one of the most crippling and painful of diseases—are well aware that no sure cure for it has been developed, but they and others may not realize the great amount of thought and effort medical men all over the country are devoting to this cruel puzzler.

So far its cause has not been found and until it is, it is quite likely that no real cure will be discovered.

However, there are hopeful developments, if not for cure, at least for relief of pain and disability. One of these concerns a study carried out by Dr. Paul B. Magnuson and his co-workers of the Northwestern University Medical School. These doctors have carried out a study of 180 patients with various forms of chronic arthritis. The most common type of arthritis is known as atrophic arthritis, which occurs in young and middle-aged persons, producing pain and swelling of the joints with later development of deformity. The hypertrophic type occurs in older people and is usually accompanied by an overgrowth of bony tissue in the joints.

The new treatment makes use of what is known as a steroid complex, a medical substance closely allied to vitamin D. As a result of their study of these patients, the doctors conclude that while the steroid complex is not a cure for atrophic arthritis, such patients can be made free from symptoms with this form of treatment.

The same mediciation also appears to have definite value in the hypertrophic type of arthritis. It would appear that treatment with steriod complex is sufficient if the patient is carefully watched during the treatment and the dosage properly regulated by the doctor.

About a third of the patients obtained good to excellent results. More than 9 out of 10 had a varying degree of improvement. In about 8 out of 100, no benefits were obtained. In about 1 out of 7, unfavorable reactions to the preparation occurred. Among these were nausea, constipation or frequency of urination.

In those patients who obtained improvement from the treatment, the improvement continued without further treatment even though the patients returned to normal activities.

X-rays taken did not indicate that the preparation caused calcium or lime salt to be developed in the blood vessels, which, of course, is a good thing, and no other disturbances developed in the use of lime by the body.

It would appear that the steroid complex does have value in relieving the symptoms in many patients with arthritis, but of course it should be used only under the direction of a physician in doses which he prescribes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: Will you please tell me something about cirrhosis of the liver?

Answer: In cirrhosis of the liver, the liver may be either enlarged or decreased in size, depending upon the kind of cirrhosis present. Sometimes there is ascites which means the collection of fluid in the abdominal cavity. Jaundice is also present at times in cases of cirrhosis of the liver.

Ohioan To Aid Soldier Son, Held for Murder

By The Associated Press

FREMONT, O., Aug. 15—Guy Keller, superintendent of state highways for Sandusky county, said today he would leave for Manila shortly to assist his son, Pfc. William C. Keller, at the latter's trial in connection with the death of a dock policeman.

The youth, assigned to the 10th General hospital in Manila, is one of three soldiers under indictment in the death of Jaime B. Logronio.

At a preliminary hearing, young Keller testified a fight ensued when Logronio attempted to molest three Filipino girls the soldiers were escorting home.

The soldier's father has appealed to Rep. Alvin J. Weichel of Ohio for transportation to Manila, where the trial will be before a Manila civil court.

Poor Crops, High Prices

IT'S either too cold and too wet or too hot and too dry. And crop figures are proving it.

Ohio's July corn estimate has been cut by 7,000,000 bushels to 111,700,000, a drop of 37 per cent below 1946 and 29 per cent below the 1936-45 average. About 10 per cent of Ohio's acreage was planted too late to reach maturity, the federal crop reporting service says.

Ohio's wheat yield per acre is down four bushels but production is up a half million bushels to 49,185,000 because of increased acreage.

The oats crop is down 4,800,000 bushels to 20,000,000 and barley and hay yields also are off.

Similar reports from other states mean even higher food prices this winter. When corn prices go chasing wheat prices which already are sky high, higher food prices join death and taxes on the "inevitable" list.

The Battle Begins

ALREADY the pulling and hauling has begun in the "unified" services The air force high command believes army paratroopers should be part of the air arm. It already has taken over rocket design from the Army ordnance department.

This is the first of many impending intra-service squabbles over who has charge of what. The Navy hasn't entered the picture yet, as it will when consolidation and elimination of duplicated facilities begins in earnest.

Secretary Forrestal will have difficult decisions to make. If he favors the Army or the Air Force, he will be accused by the Navy of abandoning ship. If he favors the Navy, the Army and Air Force brass will say, "What more could you expect from a former Navy secretary?"

Something in the Air

The melancholy days are here,
The saddest of the year,
When pollen counts go soaring
Into the stratosphere.

Now the hay fever sufferer lifts high his tattered ensign, a soggy handkerchief on which is embroidered a sprig of ragweed crossed by a scythe. Wheat and corn crops may be off but it looks like a bumper pollen crop, now that ragweed and goldenrod, discouraged by early summer rains, are flourishing like the green bay tree.

Some progress has been made against hay fever. Weed-killing chemicals and anti-histavine drugs have eased the sufferer's lot. But there still is many a susceptible person whose watering eyes and nose, twitching like a rabbit's in a lettuce patch, tells him that tiny globules of pollen are in the atmosphere. Don't laugh at him. He is draining summer's cup of pleasure and finding bitter dregs.

Familiar Visitors

ONE by one, those prewar visitors, the trans-Atlantic liners, are turning to our shores. The Mauretania, the De Grasse, the Queen Elizabeth, the Saturnia, the Vulcania and the Queen Mary all have returned to service or will be back by the end of summer.

Missing are some of the great ones—the Normandie, the Rex, the Leviathan, for intsance—and many a lesser one, including the Athenia, the war's first important sea casualty.

The British, the French and Italians have elected to continue a contest for the trans-Atlantic luxury trade. The British will rely on huge, fast vessels, while the Italians and the French will rely on smaller but equally swift and commodious vessels. American luxury ships again will play a negligible role. The American specialty will be riding foreign ships.

Shortage of Cadets

WEST POINT'S cadet corps is 276 under strength because of the failure of appointing sources to supply enough qualified candidates, according to Major General M. D. Taylor, superintendent.

There certainly are enough young men willing and able to attend the academy. It's just a matter of their receiving appointments. The academy's excellent facilities should be utilized to capacity in times like these. If the present system of appointments doesn't bring forth enough qualified candidates, a change will have to be considered.

To have a "decent diet," authorities believe people of the United States would consume annually 38-billion additional quarts of milk, 125-billion additional pounds of leafy green and yellow vegetables, 400-million more pounds of meat, poultry and fish and 135-million additional dozens of eggs.

Attempts to produce floor and wall tile for bathrooms and kitchens were made in the United States even before the Revolutionary War, but successful production did not get under way until the 1870's.

How Old Is Old?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

LAST Sunday, Herbert Hoover was 73 years old. Next Tuesday, Bernard Baruch will be 77. Serge Kousesevitzky, when conducted nine Beethoven symphonies and two concertos in a week, besides many other programs at Tanglewood, at a summer music festival, looked like a graying youth at the final concert and he is 73.

How old is old? When does a does a man really become old? I do not recall the time when I did not think of my father as an old man; yet, he must have been young some time or other. They tell me that most children think of their parents as old, while the parents imagine themselves veritable babes in the woods. Yet, Nicholas Murray Butler only aged during the last five or six years, although he is now 85 and in spite of the infirmities of what we call old age, his mind has been crystal clear throughout those decades when, according to tradition, one seems to live on borrowed time. A few years ago, when I dined with him, I was astonished at the vivid youthfulness of his attitude toward life.

William Randolph Hearst was in financial difficulties some years ago. He saved his enterprises and manages them today with unbelievable vigor at 84. He is not only edits his newspapers, but directs the business of his properties, setting a pace that is hard for a young man to follow, and Toscanini, at 80, directs the NBC Symphony.

The magazine, "World Report," some time ago listed the average span of life in various countries. They gave the following data:

| Countries | Average Span |
|---|---|
| New Zealand | 67 |
| Sweden | 66 |
| Netherlands | 66 |
| United States | 65 |
| Great Britain | 62 |
| Germany | 61 |
| France | 57 |
| Italy | 55 |
| Russia | 45 |
| India | 27 |

When we were young—those of my generation—we were taught that the average span was 35 years in this country. Maybe that was low. But the U. S. Life insurance companies, having recognized that the life span has increased by more than 50 per cent, have announced that next year they will discard as absolete the tables of mortality used for 60 years. Their actuaries have finally caught up with their own statistics. Perhaps when the American life span reaches 100, we shall not need mortality tables.

Physical youth is, of course, not the sole question. Medical science can find ways of saving life and improving those whom they save. Mental youth, the flexibility of the mind, continued usefulness, the capacity to earn a living and to enjoy life—these are even more significant. George Bernard Shaw at 91 has a whale of a good time. In spite of his being a vegetarian—which must be horrible—he manages to keep chipper. It is his mind. When that old boy talks about being in his second childhood, he has his tongue in his cheek, although some would say—not I, however—that he never escaped his first childhood.

During the depression years they were laying off men at 50 as finished. The dopes who thought up that gimmick lacked understaking of the world in which they live. They were old-fashioned. When the war came, they were begging the old boys to come back, because the old boys knew how—which is more than their great grandchildren can prove. Experience and wisdom come with age and if the oldsters, in addition, are mentally vigorous, they are worth infinitely more than the bright boys fresh out of college who know how to read a statistical curve but lack the experience and wisdom to know what made it curve that way. That is the difference, for instance, between Jesse Jones, at 73, and the little drips who complain about him.

Inflated Insolvency?

The fee for filing bankruptcy papers in federal court has been increased 50 per cent.

Everything is going up, including the cost of going under.

Bankruptcy? Bankruptcy is the legal procedure whereby a citizen may throw his assets on the barrelhead and say, "Here it is, creditors, come and get it." On the international scale, this is known as currency devaluation.

Bankruptcy is an honored estate, carrying no more social stima than divorce or an uncle in congress.

Indeed, time was, back in the days of depression, when more people were going through bankruptcy than college.

There were, of course, always those citizens who, realizing that their back was against the fiscal wall, merely hung a sign on the door, "OUT TO LUNCH," and never came back.

Not many people are having it tough at present, which is probably just as well. If bankruptcy keeps on rising, it'll soon get to the place that nobody can afford it.

The Case of the Ten

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 — The spotlight of attention may soon shift to one of the most complex and dangerous issues facing the American government today—the issue of total security as against the civil rights of the individual. This will happen if, as now seems possible, a number of the 10 employes of the state department, dismissed on grounds of "disloyalty" a few weeks ago, decide publicly to challenge the department on the issue.

These 10 people, none of them of top policy-making rank, and most of them well down the bureaucratic ladder, all received on the afternoon of June 26 the same mimeographed communication. They were curtly notified that, pursuant to the McCarren amendment to the state department appropriation, which provided for the summary dismissal of any employes suspected of disloyalty, their services were terminated "with prejudice" as of that afternoon. Their names were not published. But a state department press release announced their dismissals, and accused them of "indirect association with representatives of a foreign power." In the public mind, they were identified, however anonymously, as something close to traitors.

Most of the 10 immediately inquired of their superiors as to the cause of their dismissal, asking for the evidence on which it was based. This was not forthcoming. It was at first made apparent that there could be no appeal from the decision. Since then, in response to pressure both from inside and outside the department, a three-man loyalty board to review these and subsequent cases has been established

Most of Them Puzzled

Two or three of the 10 no doubt had very clear ideas of why they were dismissed. But unless some singularity masterful deception is under way, most of the others are sincerely mystified by the whole affair. One man, for example, can explain why the ax fell on him only in terms of the fact that he attended a few left-wing meetings in college days, out of curiosity. Another was the friend of a man who had fought with the Loyalists in the Spanish Civil war. Another somehow got on the mailing list of a left-wing bookstore. One man had once served as a technician on the staff of a professor known to be well to the left of center. And so on.

The suspicion inevitably arises that certain subordinate officials of the state department, harking to congressional cries for Communist blood, decided that a respectable number of heads must be served up on a platter. This theory gains plausibility from the fact that at least two of the purgees were already on terminal leave from the department, and were recalled only for the purpose of dismissing them. Since these two individuals were not expected to return to work in the department under any circumstances, it is certainly possible that they were dismissed only to add to the department's box score

Washington Does Talk

No doubt it was assumed that the fact that no names were published would protect those dismissed. However, it has not worked out that way. In the first place, their fellow employes of course knew why they left the department so suddenly, and Washington is more addicted to gossip than Hog Corners. In the second place, employers have a habit of asking for references, and for reasons for leaving former employment. This fact has already stood between at least one of the 10 and a desirable position. Even those who have found new jobs live in constant fear of losing them if their employers discover why they left the state department. A number of the 10 have been unable to find jobs, and are reported living on the charity of friends and sympathizers.

Some of the 10 purgees are doing what they can to get themselves reinstated, so that they may resign honorably. Failing that, there is at least a fair chance that one or two may decide to become the Dreyfuses in the case, and appeal directly to public opinion through the Civil Liberties Union. Such a public airing of the whole matter might indeed serve a useful purpose. For the issue involved is one of the gravest with which the American government is faced.

After the Canadian espionage case, which proved beyond any doubt that the Soviet Union used members of the Communist party as espionage agents against their native country, the state department would be plain fatuous not to exclude rigorously any person believed to be pro-Communist. But an ideological attitude is something virtually impossible to prove by any known rules of evidence.

Therefore the government must have some means of ridding itself of those who may only be suspected on reasonably solid grounds of pro-Communism. Yet, as the case of the 10 seems clearly to indicate, this may work the harshest kind of injustice on individual government employes. It is a kind of injustice, moreover, which strikes very close to the heart of American civil liberties. One proposal is that those against whom some valid grounds for suspicion exist should merely be allowed honorably to resign from government service. At any rate, some reasonable solution must be found. If every independent-minded man in the government is to be haunted by fears of J. Edgar Hoover's eager Hawkshaws lurking under his desk, the already too evident trend towards government-by-drones is sure to be vastly accelerated.

WATCHING AND WAITING

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Aug. 15, 1937.

Pilgrims numbering 75,000, the largest crowd in the history of the church, attended the weekend services at the Shrine of Our Lady of Consolation at Carey. The occasion also marked the national reunion of Assyrians.

John Howard Wetmore, 69, associated with the National City Bank & Trust Co. of Marion from its founding in 1900 until 1918, and a former member of the American consular service in Germany and Ireland, died at his home in Upper Arlington.

Miss Dorothy Lauer and Donald Hedges of Prospect were married in St. Paul's Lutheran church at Prospect by Rev. H. W. Disbro of Saginaw, Mich., uncle of the bride.

A formal ritualistic ceremony was held by Beta Gamma chapter, Lambda Chi Omega sorority at Hotel Harding to welcome two pledges, Misses Mary Alice Watts and Esther Underhill.

Fifteen members of the Pleasant Township Future Farmers of America chapter returned from a three-day outing at Catawba island on Lake Erie. In the group were Harold Seiter, Lowell Somerlot, Denver Holliday, Elmer Ferriman, George Young, Raymond Rider, James Rider, Loren Miller, Hubert Hoch, Harvey Fetter, Richard Cusick, Warren Cline, Paul Somerlot, Melvin Seiter and LeRoy Laucher. They were accompanied by Supt. E. E. Banning, Principal Merton Porter, M. E. Schmidt, vocational agricultural instructor and Harry Hoch.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hindman of Leader street and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Bruno of Pearl street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Aug. 15, 1927.

Elbert H. Gary, one of America's industrial giants, died at his home in New York City at the age of 80.

Charles B. King, vice president and general manager of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., was one of five Ohio manufacturers appointed to represent their state in drawing up a platform outlining the political views of American industrial interests which was to be submitted to both the Republican and Democratic parties in connection with the following year's presidential campaign.

Miss Constance Gordon returned to her home in Minneapolis, Minn. after visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Allen of Franklin street.

Mrs. J. W. Roseberry, formerly Miss Louise Cull and a recent bride, was honored when the Happy Thought circle of the First Reformed church met at her home on South High street.

"They took six bottles of home brew," was the sad tale related to Marion police in a telephone call. And then as an after-thought the loser added: "And they also took a pocketbook with $45 and a camera."

COHAGEN, Mont. — Fleeing from young Nick and Raymond Clauson, a skunk made a determined stand in the basement of the Clauson ranch home.

The animal held undisturbed sway there for three days before the boys hit on a plan. They made a ladder, lowered it gently through a basement window and retreated quietly.

The skunk took the hint, climbed out via the ladder and fled with no casualties on either side.

How Much Can We Give?

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—What most engages the attention of official Washington today, including both the administration and congress even though it is not now in session, may be condensed into something like this: the condition of Europe, the impact of that condition on us, and what we can do to ameliorate it.

To state it thus involves to an extreme degree the inadequacy of any attempt to condense an infinitely complex condition into a single sentence And to say that the condition "engages the attention" of Washington fails utterly to convey the sober anxiety that pervades the Capital. A faint suggestion of the seriousness of feeling, and of the scope of action called for, may be conveyed by mentioning some of the official activities that are under way. All cohere and focus toward a program expected to become concrete in the late fall.

A committee of European nations, set up as the outcome of Secretary of State Marshall's proposal for the restoration of Europe, is preparing a report upon what they can do for themselves in self-help, and upon the help they will need from the United States.

At Washington is a committee which is the counterpart of the European one. As the European committee is to say what is needed from America, the American committee is to say what we can do and how to do it. It is composed of officials headed by Secretary of the Interior Krug. Its function is to survey our national resources in relation to our ability to provide foreign aid. (Parallel with this are two other official committees: One, the official council of economic advisers; the other a committee set up under Secretary of Commerce Harriman.)

Also Congressional Groups

Corresponding to the committees set up by authority of the administration, and for the same purpose, are similar bodies set up in congress. A select committee on foreign affairs appointed by Speaker of the House Martin is made up of 19 key men from the standing committees on foreign affairs, agriculture, appropriations, and several others. In addition to this and cooperating with it, Representative Dirksen has been appointed to go to Europe as a special representative of the appropriations committee. The house foreign relations committee has sent representatives to Europe and elsewhere.

The select committee on foreign aid expects to leave for Europe about the first of September and return early in October. Thereafter, and following completion of the work of all the groups, will be a comparison and checking up, as between what Europe needs and what we can proffer. Following that, action must come from congress, for the need comes down to money and other material aid, which only congress has power to authorize. Whether congress will come together in a special session, or wait until the regular one in January, is not now decided. The speed with which events are moving suggests that the need of a special session will be apparent.

To list these official bodies and outline the mechanism at work fails to suggest the seriousness with which the work is being done or the gravity of the condition. Excepting that any comparison with apprehension of war would be misleading, for that does not enter any thought, the atmosphere of Washington today recalls that which existed during an August eight years ago. In 1939 there was tension and anxiety because of apprehension of war in Europe. Today the anxiety is about impending economic crises in Europe.

Basis of Fears

Our apprehension is that Europe may collapse economically, that as a result Communism might engulf the continent, and that if this should occur it would create difficulty for us as a country with a free government and a free economic system.

The purpose of the aid we propose for Europe, in addition to the broad purpose of bringing about recovery in Europe and the rest of the world, is to enable free governments in Europe to survive. Some of these, including France and Britain, are socialist or semi-socialist. But the policy of our government includes willingness to aid such countries on the ground that their systems preserve many political freedoms which Communism denies.

In all authoritative statements of what is being done in Washington, the purpose of the present phase is described as determining how much aid we can give to Europe without too serious damage to our own economic is borne in mind that we must structure and system. Always it maintain our economic integrity and national solvency. Any irreparable damage to that, through inflation or otherwise, would be as fatal as any consequence of collapse in Europe.

By BILLY ROSE

PUTTING your friends on the pan is one of the great American entertainments. I think it plays to more business than the movies. Have you ever noticed how girls in a night club try to get the other girls to go along when they want to visit the powder room? They're making sure they won't be roasted alive when they leave the table. As a rule, the girl who puts the needle on a friend bears her no more malice than the skeet-shooter does the clay pigeon. It's just good, clean fun.

Take the three sweet girls in my life—my wife, Eleanor, and her two best friends, Virginia Reynolds and Wes Bernie. They're the nicest girls I know, but when working on the target for tonight they top the three witches in "Macbeth."

"Jane is a lovely girl," says Eleanor, "but that dress! All her taste is in her mouth."

"Her face had more character before she got her nose bobbed," Wes pitches in.

Ginny picks it up. "I hear she has a new Pomeranian—a Pomeranian with pants."

And so on until the room is littered with arms, legs and little girl-chops.

Their favorite witching hour comes at 11 o'clock Sunday night when the weekend guests have gone back to town. They sit on the bed in Wes's room, take off their shoes and start carving.

"I love that red dress of Betty's," says Ginny. "She's right to wear it so often."

"Her husband is very cruel to her," says Wes. "He made her go on a diet."

"I don't blame him," purrs Eleanor. "Did you see her at the Turkish bath? Down to here'

After a few minutes of this cat-nipping, I break in, "I thought you girls liked Betty."

"Of course we like her," says Eleanor. "This is just constructive criticism Besides, what do you think she's saying about us in the car, right this minute?"

A COUPLE of weeks ago I extended a week-end invitation to a well-known actress I was hoping to sign for a show. We were all sitting around the playroom after dinner when the actress got a New York call. As she left the room, she threw a look of despair over her shoulder. The unholy three smiled reassuringly, but the instant the door snapped shut three heads drew together and six eyes were shiny and narrow.

"Lovely girl," crooned Ginny. "You have to admire a person who won't let anything stand in the way of her success."

"Did you notice her at dinner tonight?" asked Eleanor. "She eats like after a fever."

"How old do you suppose she really is?" asked Wes.

"She says she's 32," said Ginny. "In other words, she admits to 40."

"Ssh," said Eleanor. "Here she comes."

Heads separated, tense bodies relaxed. Sweet smiles spread on the sweet faces of the three sweet faces of the three sweet girls. The actress entered—she didn't just come in.

"I hope you weren't too hard on me while I was on the phone," she said.

"Of course not, silly," said Eleanor.

"That was Henrietta," said the actress "Lovely girl She's having trouble with her chauffeur. He objects to her husband."

As the quartet started to harmonize, I crept away to my typewriter.

Always Ask Pardon

By TRUMAN TWILL

There is a persistent effort to lift the level of American behavior. Thanks to the coaching they've been getting from experts on customs and manners, the pupils now know better than to kick their grandmothers in the shins with metal-toed mill shoes. They change to soft-soled bedroom slippers and murmur, "Pardon me" as the old girl goes down, moaning with pain.

Lessons in manners can be thanked for the fact almost no one leaves a spoon in his coffee cup any more while drinking coffee. It now is the practice to remove the spoon and put it in a pocket or a handbag, where it is allowed to remain indefinitely, to the distress of the owner.

Introductions always have been troublesome, always will be. But due to coaching in the proper way to make introductions—"Mrs. Lollipop, may I present Mr. Sucker, Mr. Sucker this is Mrs. Lollipop"—there are no more introductions. It is assumed that if they want to know each other they'll get acquainted; otherwise, why bother?

The problems of Knives, forks and spoons is being whipped by the behavior experts. By hammering at it for a generation, they have put over the notion that the thing to do is start at the outside and work in. Unfortunately, they are not able to be sure their students know outside from inside, and this is causing so much confusion many students now eat everything with a spoon, throwing all the other utensils on the floor.

As for rising when ladies and persons older than oneself enter a room. It is not necessary to do this. The correct thing is to roll over on one side or the other if lying down so your snoring will not disturb the person who has just come into the room; he may not be sleepy.

Similar progress has been made in the ticklish matter of knowing how to behave in other people's houses. The old-fashioned basis used to be: "If you spit on the floor at home do it here." The modern idea is that the guest is entitled to privileges away from home he would not expect to enjoy at home, such as setting wet glasses down on varnished tables, dropping tobacco ashes on the floor and spitting on the floor.

The big idea in modern manners is to be natural. Artificiality is frowned upon. The most desirable person to have around is one who is as unrestrained, happy and carefree as a child. It is perfectly all right to break windows, walk on a lady's instep, use the curtains for a shoe rag, or talk like a mule driver if one remembers to say, with a sly, knowing look, "Pardon me." Americans are on their way to being the politest people in the world, except for a few remote and struggling tribes in darkest Africa.

Salutes

If the secretary of the navy is entitled to a 19-gun salute (and he is), how many guns will the new secretary of defense be entitled to?

The President is entitled to a 21-gun salute when he comes to a ship and when he leaves. The same goes for a foreign president, a member of a royal family or a former president. A vice president, an ambassador or a cabinet officer other than the secretary of the navy gets a 19-gun salute upon leaving the ship. The secretary of the navy gets the 19-gun works coming and going.

It seems the secretary of defense should get everything the secretary of the navy gets—and a little more, too. Yet he can't be allowed as much as the President.

The secretary of the navy could be reduced. But that would mean the navy would make more racket over the secretary of, say, the interior than over its own boss. A 20-gun salute for the navy chief is out because the navy never gives even-numbered salutes. Nobody knows why. But it may be because even numbers once meant the captain had died en route.

At least two other customs won't be disturbed. Leland P. Lovette, in his book "Naval Customs," points out that all big shots are entitled to four ruffles (on drums). The secretary of defense also will get eight side boys. Years ago the side boys would lift visiting dignitaries aboard during rough weather. Special gangplanks have ended all that, but the men still are there.

MARION PHOTOGRAPHER IN MAGAZINE ARTICLE

Isedore Stein Given Recognition by National Publication.

Recognition was given a Marion photographer, Isedore Stein, in a recent issue of the Professional Photographer, national publication.

His advertising of his new quarters and enlarged facilities in The Marion Star was followed by other publicity campaigns which disproved his idea that newspaper advertising was expensive and proved that newspaper merchandising is an integral part of the photography business and spells success financially as well as publicizes his studio in a personal way.

VETS REMINDED GI BENFITS TO EXPIRE

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15—Administrator Frank J. Collopy of the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation said that from now on it will become increasingly important for war veterans who become unemployed to consider the expiration date of their rights under both the servicemen's readjustment act and the Ohio unemployment compensation law in order to be assured of maximum benefits.

Ohio veterans may file claims for unemployment compensation under either the federal or the state program, he said, but they can receive benefits from only one program at a time. Both types of claims are handled by local offices of the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation.

Collopy said that under a congressional act veterans who were discharged prior to July 26, 1947, will have until July 25, 1949, in which to qualify for readjustment allowances. Veterans discharged after July 25 will have two years from the date of discharge in which to take advantage of their rights under the GI bill.

He said that the July 25 date will not strictly apply to veterans who enlisted or reenlisted between Oct. 6, 1945, and Oct. 5, 1946, and that their status will be determined by the bureau.

Under the servicemen's readjustment act totally unemployed veterans may be eligible for a maximum allowance of $20 for 52 weeks. Under the Ohio unemployment compensation law maximum benefits to totally unemployed persons may be $21 for 22 weeks, he said.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat
It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.
If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

139 BILLS BEAR OHIO NAMES

State's Congressmen Submit Average of Half-Dozen Laws Each.

By EARL BERKLEY
Associated Press Washington Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Ohio's 23 members of the house introduced 139 bills during the first session of the 80th congress. This averaged half a dozen or so to a member.

Thirty-three were introduced at the request of constituents trying to settle claims against the government.

The 106 other bills bearing the names of Ohio representatives are general—proposing new laws, repeal of others or congressional investigations.

Rep. Al Weichel, of Sandusky, led his Buckeye colleagues with 19 measures offered. Most of them concerned matters before the merchant marine committee of which he is chairman.

An exception was Weichel's proposal to establish a memorial to Thomas A. Edison at the inventor's Milan, O., birthplace.

Bender Offers 18

Rep.-at-Large George H. Bender, of Cleveland offered 18 measures, among them the anti-poll tax bill and one to investigate the war assets administration. He also proposed an investigation of the executive branch of government and stricter safety measures in aircraft.

Walter E. Brehm, the Logan dentist-legislator, asked establishment of a national institute of dental research among his four bills. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester presented the measure creating the commission on reorganization of the executive branch of the government of which he is a member. He had three other bills.

Two measures by Raymond H. Burke, of Hamilton, would authorize the federal government to transfer war-acquired lands to states for wildlife conservation purposes. Frances Bolton, of Cleveland, presented 10 pieces of legislation, most of them affecting public health and foreign problems.

Henderson H. Carson, of Canton, had four, including one to require registration of firearms. Responsible for only one bill each, during the first half of the session were Cliff Clevenger of Bryan, P. W. Griffiths, of Marietta, Michael Kirwan, of Youngstown, and Edward O. McCowen, of Wheelerburg.

Robert Crosser, of Cleveland, and Frederick C. Smith, of Marion went through the session without a single bill bearing their names.

William E. Hess, of Cincinnati offered four measures. One proposes that congress declare Aug. 14 a legal holiday. Charles H. Elston, of Cincinnati, introduced a water pollution control bill among his eight. With his name on 10, Homer Ramey, of Toledo, wants congress to authorize the army engineers to handle flood control problems on the Great Lakes. Harry McGregor, of West Lafayette, handed in six bills including his proposal to withdraw authority for construction of Dillon dam.

Two from Vorys

John Vorys, of Columbus, presented only two new bills, one to authorize United States participation in the international refugee organization. Michael A. Feighan, of Cleveland had three.

Capital punishment would be abolished by constitutional amendment under one of the seven measures offered by Walter Huber of Akron. Earl Lewis, of St. Clairsville, wants equalization of tariffs among his 13.

Thomas A. Jenkins, of Ironton, kept alive his proposal to require the federal government to reimburse Ohio for old age pension funds withheld from the state by the social security board because of an administrative dispute several years ago.

Jenkins had 14 other bills.

Robert F. Jones, of Lima, who resigned from congress to become a member of the communications commission, introduced six measures.

Here is the score in numbers introduced:

Weichel 19; Bender 18; Jenkins 15; Lewis 13; Ramey 10; Bolton 10; Elston 8; Huber 7; Jones 6; McGregor 6; Brehm 4; Brown 4; Carson 4; Hess 4; Feighan 3; Burke 2; Vorys 2; and Clevenger, Griffiths, Kirwan and Cowen one each.

PLAN COUNTY'S SOIL PROGRAM

Expansion of Conservation Acreage Taken Up at District Board Meeting.

Action to bring approximately 4,650 acres of Marion county farm land under soil and water conservation practices and to assist with drainage problems in Pleasant and Claridon townships was taken by the board of supervisors of the Marion county soil conservation district at a meeting Thursday night in the district office in the postoffice building.

Conservation plans developed by the following farmers, with the assistance of W. L. Williams and Maxwell S. Bigham, U. S. soil conservation service farm planner and conservation aid, respectively, assigned to the Marion county district, were approved by the board: H. L. Randles, Prospect township; V. D. Martin and George W. Bricker, Green Camp township; Robert H. Williams, Wayne Duprey, Giles E. Hoch and Richard Cusick, Pleasant township; W. E. Beckel and Eugene L. Beckel, Richland township, and Oscar A. Kaelber, Waldo township.

Requests for assistance in developing conservation plans for their farms were approved for Roy Hoch and Carl Hoch, Pleasant township; William Earl, George Earl, Paul Showers, Stanley W. Baker, D. C. Comstock, Harley Foos, and Lyal Messenger, Claridon township; Paul B. Miller, Reid Epley, W. R. Lawrence Jr., L. L. Lawrence, and John P. Lawrence, Marion township, and B. A. Steif, Paul R. Benge, and J. G. Benge, Scott township.

Two groups of residents of Pleasant and Claridon townships will receive assistance from the district as a result of preliminary survey requests approved by the board. George L. Sherman of Mt. Gilead, U. S. soil conservation service agricultural engineer for the district, will draw up recommendations for relief of drainage problems in the two areas, following field surveys.

The board voted to send a delegate to the Mississippi Valley association training school for supervisors at Camp Muskingum on Leesville lake in Carroll county, early in September.

Calvin W. Baldinger, chairman of the board, presided. Attending in addition to the supervisors were Mr. Bigham, H. E. Hecker of Mt. Gilead, U. S. soil conservation service district conservationist, and Arthur H. Smith, county extension agent.

MARTEL 4-H MEETING

A joint meeting of the girls' 4-H clubs of Martel was held recently at the home of Mrs. Homer Kile. Plans were made for decorating a booth at the Marion county fair.

Jury Studies Lurid Letters

Seeks Motive for California Yacht Murder in Love Notes.

By The Associated Press

SANTA ANA, Calif., Aug. 15—The lurid love letters of two collegians charged with murder today were in the hands of a jury that scanned the passionate missives for a possible motive for the yacht blast slayings of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell.

The private correspondence of George (Bud) Gollum and his sweetheart, Louise Overell, was admitted as evidence as the state concluded its 12-weeks prosecution. But the hundreds who stormed the courthouse, intent upon hearing the secrets of the young lovers, were disappointed as they had to watch the jury read in silence the letters exchanged by Bud and Louise in jail.

Lust and greed, Prosecutor Eugene Williams has argued, motivated the young lovers to kill the girl's wealthy parents "so that they might continue and expand their sexual experiences."

Secretly Opened

"I wish we were in our own home, alone" read one of Gollum's letters, one of the 15 that were secretly opened by jail officials, photographed and resealed before delivery. "That's why I don't want to have a housekeeping couple in a house of ours . . . We would not be able to run around the house naked. We would not be able to make unreserved love anywhere, anytime."

On another occasion he wrote: "We sure will be acquitted (I hope). If we aren't then our life insurance goes into effect. Now I imagine you know what life insurance is, n'est-ce pas??"

"The prosecution has not," he wrote in another missive, "any motive for us. As I see it, their whole case hinges on connecting us or me directly with the dynamite and us being the last people on board."

Bud told her once that he intended to be "real masculine" after they were married. He said the marriage would occur about one hour after the jury returned with the good news "not guilty." and that they immediately would speed to Arizona or Nevada for the marital vows.

Begs Similar Letters

Gollum begged his sweetheart to write to him in the same vein in which he addressed her. His love for her, he admitted, was based on sex," but I think the emotions and acts of sex are the most beautiful and necessary of any possessed by human beings. In the word 'sex' I include all the thouhts I have about you. My love is sex. I'm not a disciple of Freud; I just think that all emotions and feelings between two people — between us — is sexual, but sexual in a way that is good and healthy and will, as the years pass, strengthen our lives together."

Louise wrote a letter in which she concluded with the expressions that "I simply cannot explain how I feel toward you; it is sufficient to say that you are my whole and only interest in life. I dream of your big, beautiful chest. Nobody else has a beautiful and as hairy a chest as you."

G.A.R. Elects New Officers, Adjourns 81st Encampment

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15 — Undaunted by their composite age of more than 500 years, five survivors of the Grand Army of the Republic elected officers yesterday and adjourned their 81st national encampment.

To their new commander-in-chief, Robert W. Rownd of Ripley, N. Y., they committed the assignment of calling and locating the 82nd encampment in 1948. Grand Rapids, Mich., has placed a bid for the meeting.

Theodore Penland of Portland, Ore., who did not come to Cleveland for this year's convention, was elected senior commander-in-chief, and John R. Bennett, 103, from Waynesfield, O., was named junior commander-in-chief.

Other national officers will be John H. Grate of Atwater, O., chaplain, John C. Adams of Jonesboro, Ind., adjutant general and quarter master general; William Osborne of Joplin, Mo., patriotic instructor, and John S. Dumser of Oakland, Cal., chief of staff.

A note of sadness featured the final day of the encampment when the five old soldiers received word of the death in Alliance, O., of Oakley Bailey, 104-year-old veteran. Bailey's death reduced the number of G. A. R. veterans still living to 67.

MARION COMES FROM BEHIND TO TRIP ZANESVILLE, 6-1

Make It 4 Straight Over Bums; Ed Witowski To Pitch Tonight

By DON BURTON

The surging Marion Cubs came from behind again at Lincoln park last night to whip the Zanesville Dodgers for the fourth straight time, 6-1. The afternoon rain and threatening weather cut the night's paid attendance down to 1,947, but ran the total for the series to 8,300.

A capacity crowd is expected for the game tonight and should run the total paid attendance to well over 11,000 fans for the entire five-game series here.

Manager Nelson Burbrink has nominated big Ed Witowski for the hurling chores. Manager Clay Bryant will come back with his ace southpaw Sanford Lambert who lost the opener here Monday, 7 to 4. Lambert has won 17 games while losing seven against only three deefats.

Kean Tames Cubs

In the game last night Bill Kean tamed the Cubs for three innings without a hit, but Bob Shuford tagged him for a double to start the fourth for the first hit. Bob scored the tying run a few seconds later when Roy Hollingshead barked Sandy Luberto's shins with a single.

Bert Flamini limited the Dodgers to only six hits and won his seventh game in eight starts. A single unearned run in the first inning was all that Bert allowed. He fanned nine and walked eight.

The Cubs garnered 12 bingles off Bill Kean. Five of these were for extra bases, as Mel Nelson continued his classy clouting with two triples and John Smith, Bob Shuford and Gene Bobzean kicked in with doubles. Joe Belcastro and Sandy Luberto hit doubles for the losers. Every man in the Marion batting order got at least one hit with the exception of Flamini who aided the cause with a walk and a sacrifice.

Kean, the Dodger right hander, is the only Zanesville hurler to beat the Cubs here this year and he did not go the route. He won an 8-3 verdict over John Edington in a seven inning game here June 28. Lambert, tonight's hurler for Zanesville, has lost twice here this year. The Cubs beat him here Monday night, 7-4, and also on June 26, 6-2. Jim Sabens was the winner of that game.

The Dodgers scored their only run in the opening round last night on a single by Morris Mikesell and an infield roller that Walter Dill beat out, but the throw from John Smith was wild and Mike scored all the way from first base.

The Cubs took over the lead in the fifth when the first of Mel Nelson's triples was followed by Burbrink's fly to right. The Cubs added more insurance runs in the sixth.

Jim Forbes singled and moved to second on a sacrifice by Flamini. A single by Hollingshead, an infield out by John Smith, on which Forbes tallied and a triple by Nelson. Mel also scored when Kean threw the ball wild to second trying to catch Burbrink, who had walked, off base.

Another in Eighth

A double by John Smith and Burbrink's single that hit the third base bag got another in the eighth. Between the two blows was a foul pop up to first base on which Smith took third. Maxhimer also singled and Burbrink walked to load the sacks in this inning but Belcastro pulled down Bobzean's long fly for the third out.

Although rain began to fall soon after the game started and continued to drizzle until the seventh inning, most of the crowd of 2,000 stayed until the finish.

Ray Dabek, Dodger catcher was ejected from the game by Umpire Staley in the third inning. The ump said Dabek had been protesting ball and strike decisions in every inning and he had been warned several times to cease the frequent "beefs" but failed to heed the warning.

ALL OTHER OSL GAMES WASHED OUT

All other games in the Ohio State league except the Marion-Zanesville contest were rained out last night, The Associated Press reported. Doubleheaders have been scheduled around the league to make up for the postponed games of last night.

9 Men Cry as This Goose Lays Egg

MIAMI, Fla.—"Mommer" is a seven-foot sarcastic goose which lays a foot-long egg that can mean only unhappiness for at least nine men.

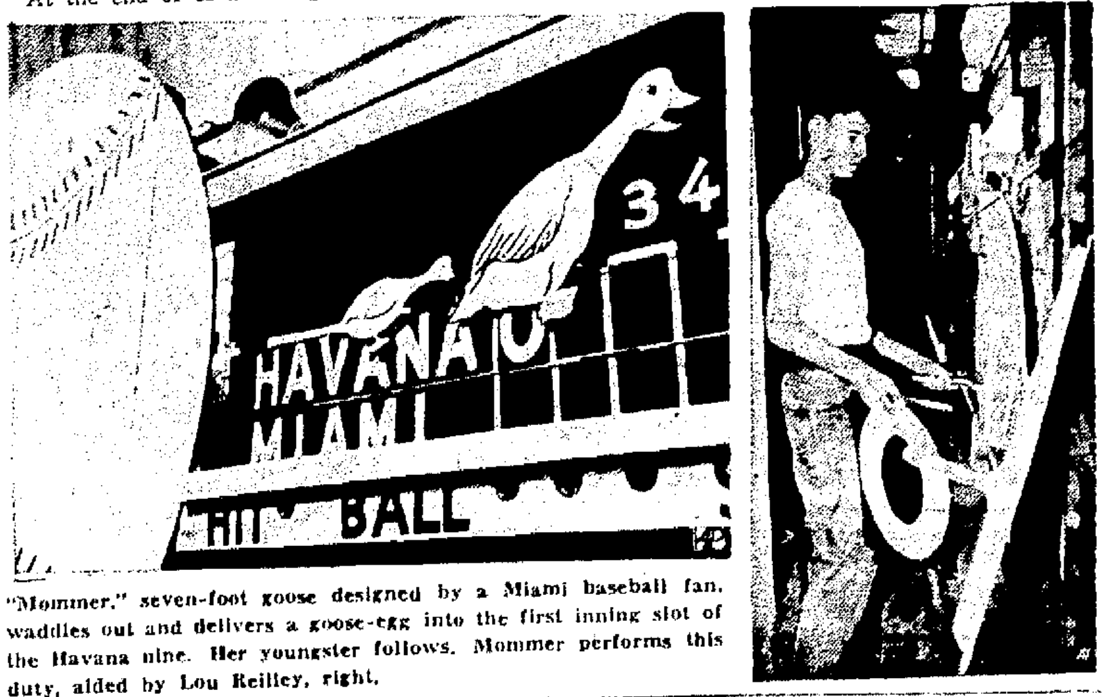
Mommer is the produce of James O. Tice, a Miami Tech High school teacher with an ability to construct and a love of baseball. Mommer's duty is to lay a goose egg on the line score of a visiting baseball team.

At the end of each inning—if the opposition hasn't scored — accompanied by cackles, Mommer waddles across a 52-foot scoreboard and drops a foot-high zero into the proper slot. She works for the Miami Tourists of the Florida International league.

On occasion she misses the proper slot, and in that event her 30-inch high offspring comes excitedly out and picks up the misplaced goose egg and returns it to the correct slot.

Tice, a rabid baseball fan, has long wondered why—when the visiting team got a zero at the end of the inning—a goose didn't deliver the unhappy score.

He cut "Mommer" from a seven-foot piece of fiber board and mounted her on a cable. Lou Reilley, a Tech student, is Mommer's mode of operation on her mission. A recording on an amplifier system provides the proper sound effects.



"Mommer," seven-foot goose designed by a Miami baseball fan, waddles out and delivers a goose-egg into the first inning slot of the Havana nine. Her youngster follows. Mommer performs this duty, aided by Lou Reilley, right.

U. S. Baseball Congress Opens 13th Tournament

By The Associated Press

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 15 — The National Baseball Congress' thirteenth annual semi-pro tournament, which carries a prize of $10,000 to the champion, will open tonight with the usual rousing ceremonies before an expected 12,000 fans.

Meeting in the first tilt of the 17-day grind will be the Golden, Colo., Coors and the Wichita Cessna Bobcats. A second game tonight will match the Alpine, Tex., Cowboys and the Camp Lee, Va., Travelers.

Thirty-two teams are entered in the double-elimination tournament, scheduled to end Aug. 31.

"How Come?" Asks Feller As Chandler Orders, "No Cuba"

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15 — Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler has issued a directive forbidding major leaguers from playing as members of Cuban winter league teams, and Cleveland's Bobby Feller — whose plans for a barnstorming tour brought on the ruling — is asking "how come?"

Feller had announced earlier in the week that he would pitch five games for a Cuban league team between Oct. 21 and Nov. 8.

"Players are permitted to conduct barnstorming tours in other places outside the United States," said the Cleveland ace upon his arrival here last night, adding, "why should Cuba be an exception."

Feller said Cleveland President Bill Veeck had approved his tour after the present season and added that he planned to consult Veeck further as soon as the latter gets out of the hospital.

"I plan to get in touch with the commissioner at an early date." Feller said. "I am sure everything will be ironed out satisfactorily and I can go ahead with the tour as planned."

Not only did Chandler rule with regard to the Cuban league, but he said major leaguers must obtain his permission to play outside the continental United States during the 30-day period in which they are permitted to play with other than their own clubs.

Blue Birds To Play Nine From Dayton Tomorrow

The Kitty Hawks, fast-stepping team from Wright field Dayton, have been scheduled for a nine-inning game at Crystal Lake park against the Marion Blue Birds tomorrow at 2 p. m.

The fliers, who recently played host to the locals, treating them to meals, lodging, and a pair of defeats, have several players who were in organized baseball.

Manager LeRoy Harvey of the Blue Birds will probably name Tick Moran to oppose Bob Ively on the mound. Tick has never allowed more than seven hits in a game he's pitched this season.

Sunday the Blue Birds will play the Ridgeway Merchants at Ridgeway.

COUNTY GOLF MEET SET FOR MAR-O-DEL COURSE NEXT MONTH

Largest Number of Entries Expected in Tourney Starting Sept. 3.

The Marion County Golf Tournament will be played over the Mar-O-Del course starting Sept. 3 and is expected to draw the largest number of entries in any meet to be held here this season, it was announced today by Don Preuninger, chairman of arrangements for the Y's Men's Service club, sponsors of the event.

Qualifying rounds will be played from Aug. 18 to Sept. 2 with scores being accepted in all five from either the Marion Country club or the Mar-O-Del course. The entry fee will be the same as last year and includes a practice and qualifying round in addition to the tournament matches, Prueninger The tournament, which is open said.

to all golfers regardless of proficiency, will be divided into four classes. Besides the championship flight, golfers will compete in 80, 90, and 100 shooters brackets. Entry blanks are obtainable at both the Marion Country club and the Mar-O-Del course in addition to being carried in The Marion Star.

The prize list this year in addition to The Marion Star trophy will include for the first time a permanent championship trophy to be sponsored by the Y's Men In addition a large prize list is being sponsored by Marion merchants. The list this year is larger than ever previously posted, Preuninger said. Trophies and prizes will be on display starting Monday at Anson Pickerel's.

Competition for The Marion Star trophy is expected to be keen this year. John Rife winner last year will be seeking the second leg as will four other one time winners including Dick Isaly in '45, Suel Drown in '44, Don Prueninger in '43 and Bob Owens in '42.

Rife is working for his second Star trophy having retired the first in the three successive years previous to 1942.

Working with Prueninger in staging the county meet are Harold Henry, John Smith, Carl Keller and Robert Kraner.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 15 — Baldwin Wallace college Coach Eddie Finnigan's left leg was broken while working on a B-W athletic field yesterday. Berea hospital said he was resting comfortably.

Bums Seem To Have Recovered Winning Ways As Cards Slip Up

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn appears to have regained its balance after a tipsy two-week interlude by cooling off the steaming Boston Braves while the St. Louis Cards' headlong rush has been slowed down.

With only a four-game trip to Philadelphia between them and the vital Ebbets field series with the Cardinals, the Brooks have a 4½ game lead.

While they are playing Ben Chapman's under-manned Phils, the Cardinals will be at Forbes field with the Pirates who have been getting the pitching to back up their home run power.

Vic Lombardi's performance in shutting out Boston yesterday, 1-0, must have been encouraging to Manager Burt Shotton. Lombardi allowed only four hits, all singles, in spinning his seventh victory at the expense of Lefty Warren Spahn.

Ed Stanky singled and was bunted to second by Jackie Robinson's perfect sacrifice. After Peter Reiser flied out, Carl Furillo rolled a ground single through Nanny Fernandez's legs, driving home Stanky with the lone run.

St. Louis ran into its old southpay trouble, bowing to the left-handed Fritz Ostermueller at Pittsburgh, 55-3, although they banged out 10 hits. Ralph Kiner, the Bucs' slugging outfielder who may yet catch up with New York's Johnny Mize in the home run race, hit No. 30 with two on base off loser Murry Dickson in the first inning. However Jimmy Bloodworth actually won the game with a bases-loaded single in the sixth.

Phils Drop Giants

The Philadelphia Phils dropped the Giants further out of the race with a 6-5 decision, their third straight over New York.

Allie Reynolds became the American league's first 15-game winner when he hurled the New York Yankees to an 8-4 edge over Philadelphia's Phil Marchildon although neither starter finished.

Frank Shea, undergoing the bullpen treatment until Manager Bucky Harris thinks his arm is ready for starting duty, got Reynolds out of a ninth-inning jam.

Another small crowd, only 2,412 paid, turned out to see the St. Louis Browns succumb to Detroit, 7-0, under the spell of Stubby Overmire's four-hit pitching.

A Cleveland at Chicago game was rained out after one scoreless inning and the other clubs were not scheduled.

COMMERCIAL STEEL BEATS OSGOOD, 10-0

General Excavator Forfeits Softball Tilt to O.P.S.

Only one Industrial league game was held last night as two were postponed because of wet grounds and another scheduled tilt resulted in a forfeit.

Commercial Steel shooed Osgood from the ranks of the second round undefeated, 10-0, behind the one hit pitching of Aldrich. It was the twelfth straight league victory for Commercial and gives them a second round record of five wins against no losses. Pollak Steel with four wins and no losses is nearest them in the standings.

Home runs were hit last night by Mel Lehner and Francis Reeder. Jim Reeder replaced Aldrich in the sixth inning and got to twirl to one man. The game was called because of darkness.

The forfeit last night occurred when General Excavator failed to show for a game with Ohio Public Service. Games between Ohio Associated Telephone and Quaker Oats and McMillen Feeds and Pollak Steel were postponed because of wet grounds.

All-Star Grid Battle Billed For Tonight

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

CANTON, O., Aug. 15—Close to [illegible] fans are expected to fill Fawcett Stadium tonight as northern Ohio high school gridders battle those from the southern sector in the second annual All-Star contest.

Ray Eliot, University of Illinois mentor, will coach the Northern team and Wesley Fesler, Ohio State university's new pigskin chief, will pilot the Southerners.

The playing talent was picked up from senior members of the All-Ohio squad selected after the 1946 campaign, with some of the gaps being filled by hand-picked boys.

Fesler, speaking at a banquet for some 300 visiting coaches last night, indicated his Southern squad was the underdog when he remarked in a kidding vein that "we are really loaded—we'll kill that bunch of Northerners."

Eliot, sticking to the traditional "we can't win" statement of coaches declared: "If we can get our poor little Northern boys together to meet those big Southern men, maybe we will have a game."

The rival coaches, working with their charges for almost two weeks, have agreed to set up [illegible] defenses and stick to them no matter what happens. The same goes for the offenses.

Fesler's Southerners will use the unbalanced "T" formation on offense, and the 5-3-2-1 defensive setup, while Eliot's outfit will maneuver from the unbalanced "T", and defending with a 6-2-2-1 lineup. Angle charging has been ruled out.

Bob Walston, husky backfielder from Columbus Linden McKinley was named captain by the South squad. Lou Sequella of Youngstown Ursuline was elected captain of the Northern squad of 24.

Walston will shoulder many of the chores which originally had been handled by injured Dick Boykin of Ironton.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching. Vic Lombardi, Dodgers—Shut out Boston with four singles 1-0 for seventh win, giving Brooklyn 2-1 edge in vital series.

Batting. Ralph Kiner, Pirates—Hit his 30th homer of the year with two on in the first inning and also banged out two singles in 4-2 win over Cardinals.

Jay Cees Obtain Grid Concession

Sale of tickets and handling of the concession stand at Marion Angels home football games this season will be done by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The club hopes to raise money for their civic projects fund through taking charge of these functions. It will receive a commission on all tickets and refreshments sold.

An advance ticket sale to the first game was started this week and tickets or books of tickets can be purchased from club members.

Some Cincinnati fans trace Eddie Miller's sparkling work at the plate this season to a change in numbers. He wore No. 13 last year, switched to 14 this season.

Babe Stands Golf On Head By Going Pro

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 15—Unheralded abdication of defending champion Mildred (Babe) Didrickson Zaharias, who was lured into professional golf by a $300,000 movie offer, turned preparations for the 1947 Women's National Amateur championship at Franklin Hills Country club Sept. 22-27 upside down today, just as her absence from the field will turn the tournament into a free-for-all scramble next month.

The publicity crew started all over from scratch, junking nearly all its material prepared in advance, and Franklin Hill's finance committee was wondering what the withdrawal of the No. 1 attraction would do to galleries at the week-long match play fixture.

Installed quickly as the hottest favorite to fall heir to Mrs. Zaharias' crown was Louise Suggs, the little 23-year-old Lithia Springs, Ga., brunet who captured both the Women's Western Amateur and Western Open titles last year, downing the Babe in the semi-finals of the open.

Ohio's three chief contenders are Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Jean Hopins of Cleveland and Carol Diringer of Tiffin.

Withdrawal of Mrs. Zaharias was expected to push the field close to the 200 mark.

Joe Louis Loses Golf Finals at Clevland

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 15 — Joe Louis' medal score of 75 was not good enough in the Sixth City Golf Association Pro-Amateur Open and he lost out in the final round, 3 to 2.

The heavyweight boxing champ was defeated by Judson Grant of Los Angeles — who medalled a 74 — yesterday in the 18-hole amateur wind-up.

Ted Rhodes of Los Angeles won the professional competition with 287 for the 72 holes. He received $150 for first money.

Billy Rayburn Retains Wrestling Championship

Billy Rayburn retained his championship belt last night by taking first and third falls from Gordon Hessell in the main-go at the Armory last night.

Sammy Kohen took first and third falls from Gil LaCross to win the semi-final.

Midwestern Gasoline Shortage Predicted

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 — Demand for fuel oil and gasoline is running so far ahead of refineries that shortages appear probable, particularly in the middle west, the American Petroleum Institute said today.

Because of increased use of tractors, farm consumption of gasoline has doubled in the midwest where transportation problems were reported as intensified and where the supply situation is the most critical, the institute said.

The report added that the refining industry is processing more than 5,100,000 barrels of crude oil a day, compared with an average of 4,711,000 barrels during the peak war time year of 1945, and a prewar average of 3,861,000 barrels in 1941.

"Liquor Payments" At Put-In-Bay To Be Probed Further

By The Associated Press

PORT CLINTON, O., Aug 15 —Prosecutor George Slaughter of Ottawa county today awaited a complete report from Columbus before deciding an action on alleged payments to the "Village of P. Bay," and the "sheriff" listed in a ledger seized by liquor agents in a raid.

At a state liquor board hearing yesterday in Columbus, Charles Schnur, assistant attorney general, read from a grey ledger of payments of "$1,500 to the village" and "$500 to the sheriff."

Slaughter said:

"I don't know what evidence has been obtained or if it is valid. As soon as I receive a report from Columbus on the matter, I will check into it, and determine what action if any will be taken."

Schnur read from the ledger at a hearing on slot machine charges against Christ Bulubasis and Theodore Paisios, holders of beer, wine and whisky, and carry-out beer and wine permits for Jim's Place, at Put-In-Bay, a popular resort town on South Bass island in Lake Erie.

Isadore Topper, defense counsel, objected to admission of the ledger as evidence in the case He contended it had been taken without a search warrant and, "there's no way of telling what it is, or whose it is, or how it got there."

Sheriff Ralph R Riedmaier of Ottawa county, which includes the island, said: "I know nothing about it and I never received any money."

The liquor case was closed yesterday after the defendants entered pleas of guilty to the slot machine charges Topper said the guilty pleas were entered because of the "broad language of the regulation" which forbids gambling devices "in, on, or about" premises where liquor is sold.

The board took the case under advisement.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

BOTH Philip Veritzen, famous impresario, and his daughter-in-law, Mary, my husband's lovely, gifted niece, are such "Thespian-dyed-in-the-woolers," as Dicky terms them, that it is hard to tell where, in their words and actions, is the cleavage between miming and reality.

But I was sure that there was sincerity in the emotion with which Philip was giving Mary the tender parental welcome, even if his voice and manner made me feel as though I were sitting in a front seat at a theater, with Philip and Mary playing a romantic scene behind the footlights.

Mary's reply was equally dramatic.

"Oh, Dad, dear!" Her lilting voice made a song of the words, while contrition and glad response to his tenderness mingled in her eyes and her facial expression. "It is so wonderful to be home, and so good of you to welcome me like this!

"You ought to take a cat-o'-nine-tails to me," she went on, with an upward shamed sweep of her eyes. "I was such a heel to repay all your wonderful kindness by coming home without your permission, or even letting you know. But I really would have been clapped into a strait jacket if I had stayed out there, and I have a sneaking suspicion that she has been keeping one under cover for days, ready to clap it on me, if, when, and where needed."

Philip Veritzen laughed as he released her. It is the usual response everyone makes to Mary's nonsense. It is not so much what she says, as the delightful diablerie with which her voice and facial expressions invest the words, that invites mirth in her hearers.

Was Annoyed and Angry

"I shall not deceive you," he said, a bit pompously. "I was annoyed, even angry, when you first came home." Mentally I told myself that "annoyance" and "anger" were mild and feeble words to be used in connection with the fury which had possessed him when he had learned of Mary's homecoming.

"But that all vanished in an instant when I found out how really ill you have been," he went on, "and now that I know of the terrible fear which has obsessed you I want to beg your forgiveness for my harshness.

"The first thing we must do now," he said — he was firmly mounted in the conversational saddle and no one else could hope to slip in the traditional word edgeways until he finished—"is to forget everything that has passed. It must all be as though it had never been, this past year at the sanitarium, and your experiences since. As soon as Dr. Twitchell says you are physically strong enough, you must go back to your own apartment — I gather from your aunt, that is what you wish to do—"

"Oh, yes!" Mary breathed fervently, but he gave her no chance to say anything else, and his involuntary frown told me that he did not expect even that much of an answer.

"And then," he went on, "I know that you will be anxious to get up in the lines of the play that your aunt already has ready for you."

His eyes rested obliquely upon me, and I knew that his next words would be directed at me.

"I am sure, Madge," he said, "that there will be nothing to prevent you from getting the rest of the play finished as quickly as possible. I know your skill in construction, and your speed in dialogue. You will be able to keep pace with Mary's studying of her role, I am sure."

I wondered if Mary shared my feeling that we were being harnessed to a racing cart, with her charming but relentless father-in-law in the driver's seat.

Public Fiercely Yoyal

"I want to get that play cast and in rehearsal as soon as possible," he went on. "And I am going to give you a build-up such as a star hasn't had in years. Not that you need it," he interjected, "but you have been away a year. However, I am sure your public is stil fiercely loyal. With your following, and your ability, and the play, if it fulfills its promise, I shall not be surprised to see a five year Broadway run!"

"Five years!" Mary echoed, and if there were not a nuance of dismay in her astonishment, then I have studied her intonations in vain since she was a child.

"Probably longer than that," her father-in-law affirmed, and I wondered if his keen perception of moods and tenses of temperament were failing him.

"But suppose—" Mary faltered, "suppose I fell ill again?"
